

Tribeca Lofts

This is a high end residential concrete high rise project which consists of an in-slab domestic water distribution and exhaust systems typical of a concrete high rise today. The challenge to this project was that no two floors were the same.